

The Savannahs

Just minutes away from Kennedy Space Center, and situated next to a natural Florida savannahs, this par-72 championship course is a haven for great golf! Designed by Gordon Lewis, golfers experience 6,507 challenging yards winding through a majestic hardwood forest and several scenic lakes. Besides great shuttle viewing, golfers frequently share the course with a myriad of exotic water birds, hawks, osprey—even a nesting pair of eagles.

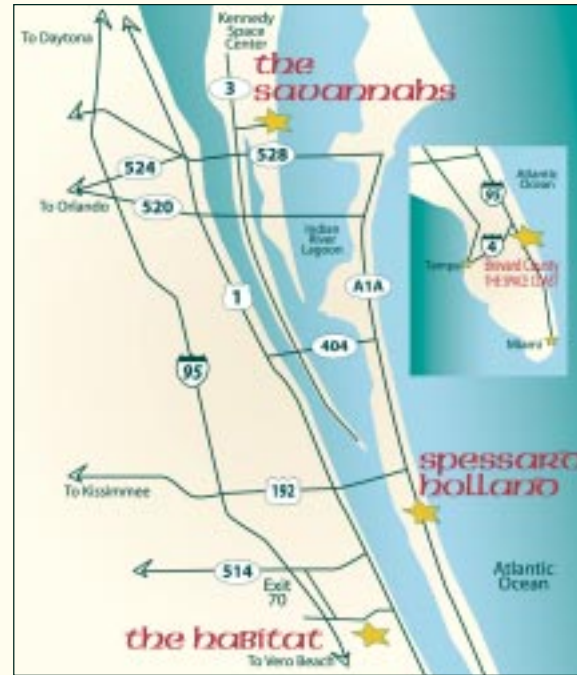

This beautifully tight, typically southern course features four sets of tees, making play ideal for beginners and pros. A par-5 on the 7th hole is a well deserved score, as it tees off over water to a two-tiered green with water along both sides. Not for the faint of heart, the par-4 11th hole requires a long, accurate drive to the green bordered by water to set up a second shot. Don't miss the rewards of accuracy on this course that imparts true southern flavor.

Spessard Holland

Receiving a distinctive renovation in the Summer of 2000—redesigned by Gene Burress, this Arnold Palmer Enterprises designed course invites year-round walking and offers players of all skill-levels an enjoyable challenge. The par-67 stretch executive course is on the Barrier Island where the par-4, 361-yard 3rd hole offers a view of the Atlantic Ocean, and the 14th hole borders the Indian River—where dolphins, manatees, and osprey are frequent visitors.

Although not a long course (5,210 yards from the back tees), accuracy, especially on the six par-3 holes—ranging from 128 to 191 yards, is important. The par-3 hole 7 is 182 yards from the back tees with an all carry over water, but is only 81 yards from the forward tees. The eleven par-4 holes and one par-5 provide stimulating variety. With the constant and unpredictable ocean breezes, this exceptional seaside golf course challenges the use of all fourteen clubs.

The Habitat

The environment is awesome and the play is invigorating on this 6,836 yard championship golf course nestled amidst the pristine splendor of Florida's sensitive ecosystem. Designed by nationally acclaimed architect, Charles Ankrom, the course displays imaginative topographic features and demanding mounded fairways intermingling through a wide variety of natural habitats.

Meandering through gopher tortoise, sandhill crane, and scrub jay habitats, wetlands, pine forests and rolling terrain, the spectacular par-72 course features five sets of tee positions for competition and play by golfers of all skill levels. While the "Scottish" 6th hole and the "Carolina Style" 13th hole are characteristic challenges to exhilarate the experienced player, both beginner and pro will find play amidst the unparalleled beauty of the natural hazards an unforgettable experience.
